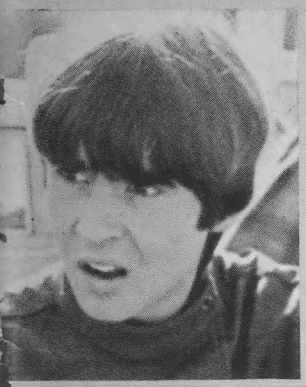
Does Davy H

Here is the letter that started it all:



I'm really getting sick and tired of hearing how much Davy loves his fans and wouldn't do anything to hurt them. I know of about four girls who wrote in and said it breaks their hearts to see Davy with other girls. But just think how many beautiful girls you've seen Davy with in pictures!

Do you ever see Peter, Micky or Mike with girls in pictures? No, because they care if their fans get hurt or jealous. In my opinion Davy loves to see his fans get hurt and that's why he probably just loves to have lots of pictures of him with girls in Tiger Beat! Down with Davy!

Georgia Palmer
Montgomery, Alabama

Dear Tiger Beat Readers,

I picked up the last Tiger Beat and I was reading the letters from all of you when I came across one from Georgia Palmer criticizing me for letting pictures run of me with some of the girls I date. Georgia felt that I was hurting my fans by doing this.

I was so upset that I decided the only thing I could possibly do was write a letter in reply. I thought about what I should say all day during filming and that night when I got home.

I wondered if maybe I WAS hurting my fans by being photographed with my girlfriends—and even those girls I don't date. Finally, I just couldn't decide what I should do or what I should say so I got on the phone and called two of my best friends and asked them what they thought I should do.

They were no help at all! One thought I should go ahead and continue letting fans know who I date and where I go, and the other thought that I should just withdraw from print where this part of my life is concerned.

That night I couldn't sleep because I had visions of some of my fans standing at the foot of my bed, crying and saying I was hurting them, just like they sometimes do at concerts when we perform. It was awful! I felt terrible that I—Davy Jones—could hurt people so badly when I didn't mean to at all. I'd almost made up my mind to quit being so open about my private life when the phone rang and it turned out to be a fan who had somehow gotten my number and wanted to talk.

Ordinarily, I would have been very upset that a fan—someone who thinks of themself as a friend—would call me in the middle of the night just to talk, when they know that I have to get up early to film.

But this night, I didn't mind a bit. I don't know what her name was or where she lived or what she looked like, but she helped me make my big decision and right now, I'd like to thank her.

You see, the first thing she asked me was what I was doing and what my house looked like and finally, after a while, she asked me who I was dating and what kind of girls I like and who I was going out with.

Well, I couldn't keep it in and I started pouring out my story and my problem over what sort of a decision to make. I had almost decided to become a recluse about my private life.

"But Davy," she said, "you're one of the few people who let their fans know what they're doing. I'd much rather know who you are dating and what you are doing than have to sit around and wonder whether you're married or sitting home unhappily watching television every night because you are lonesome!"

urt His Fans?

Last month the Tiger Talk mail was overloaded with protest letters defending Peter Tork and his divorce of several years ago. This month it was Davy's turn to be in the spotlight.

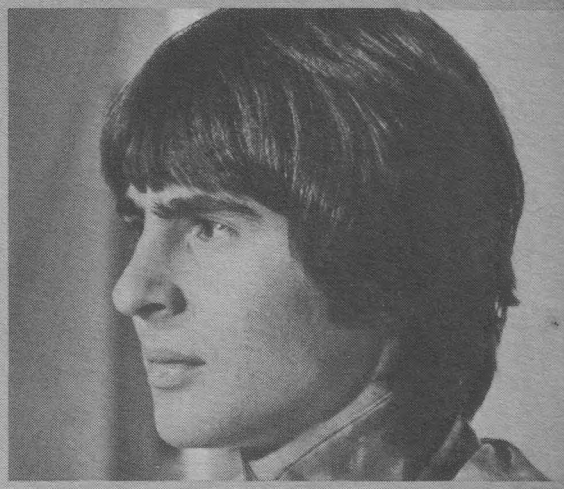
When I first got a hold of Georgia's letter I was very surprised. Knowing full well of all that Davy has done for his fans (knowing for sure because many, many times I have witnessed his good deeds) I wondered if other fans felt the way Georgia did.

I wasn't sure how they'd feel, but I soon found out. Soon after the letter was printed another super-increase in mail resulted—all of the letters sticking up for Davy.

I know first hand all that Davy has done for friends and fans alike. I also know that Davy's actions are not typical. Can you name many other faves who do as much as Davy? I can't!

When Davy read Georgia's letter he was, of course, hurt, but also worried that many other fans felt the same as she did. After much thought he came to me and asked if he could write an open letter in Tiger Beat. I thought it was the best idea ever, since there would be no doubting the way Davy feels. So, on the opposite page is Davy's letter to YOU.

Ann Moses, Editor



Then she told me a story about how she watched the Monkees when we first came on television and how she used to lie awake nights because she thought I didn't have anyone in the world who cared about me. All she had read said that my family was in England and that I lived alone or with friends like Mike sometimes and she really thought that I must be one of the loneliest people in the world. She said that sometimes she'd sit at the dinner table at her home and look around at her parents and her brothers and sisters and she'd almost break into tears because she wanted to invite me home so that I could share some of her happiness.

I forgot to ask her what she was doing talking on the phone at midnight, but I'm glad she called because I needed someone to talk to and she helped me make my decision.

You see, by the time I had hung up the telephone, I knew that what I've been doing—sharing my experiences with all of you—is right and that I should continue doing so.

I don't mean to hurt anyone, but think how much it would be hurting me to have to quit going out with girls whose company I enjoy. There wouldn't be any such thing as going out and not let pictures be printed, because some one is always there with a camera and a performer can't say anything about whether the pictures get printed or not. That's all part of freedom of the press.

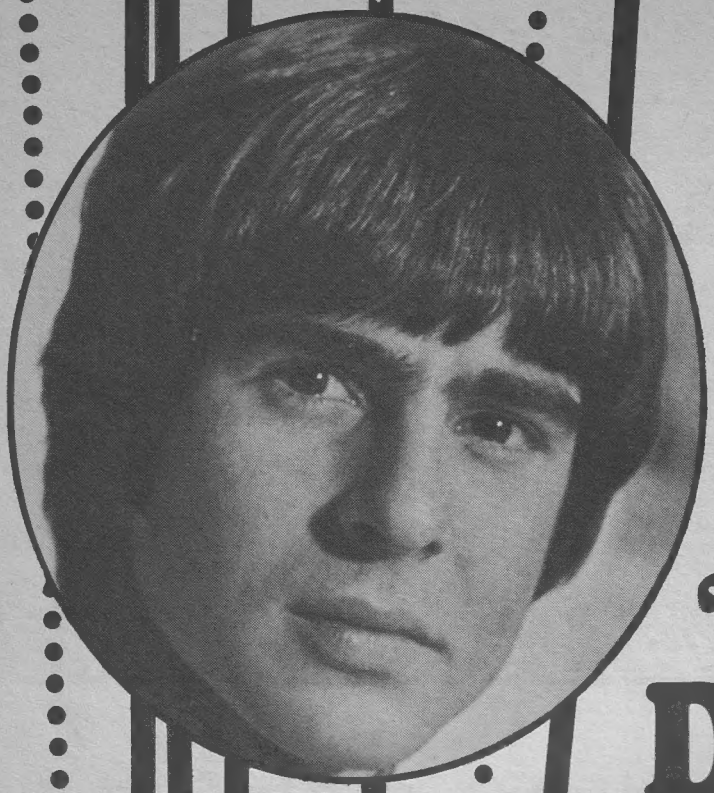
And if I quit going out, I really would be unhappy because I don't have any family and I don't have time to make a lot of close friends and the few really close friends that I do have often make plans on their own. So I'd wind up spending a lot of time by myself.

But most importantly, if I quit having pictures taken of myself and my girlfriends, I'd feel that I was shutting you out of a big part of my life. I wouldn't be honest and I don't think it would be fair. I want you to share my life and my happiness; and I think that the mark of a mature fan is someone who can accept that I do have my own life to lead. I can't be an actor both on and off the stage or the screen or the television set.

I hope this will help explain to all of you why I allow pictures to be taken of me with girls I date. After all, I think it would be fun to see pictures of you having a good time with someone you like. I want everyone to be happy!

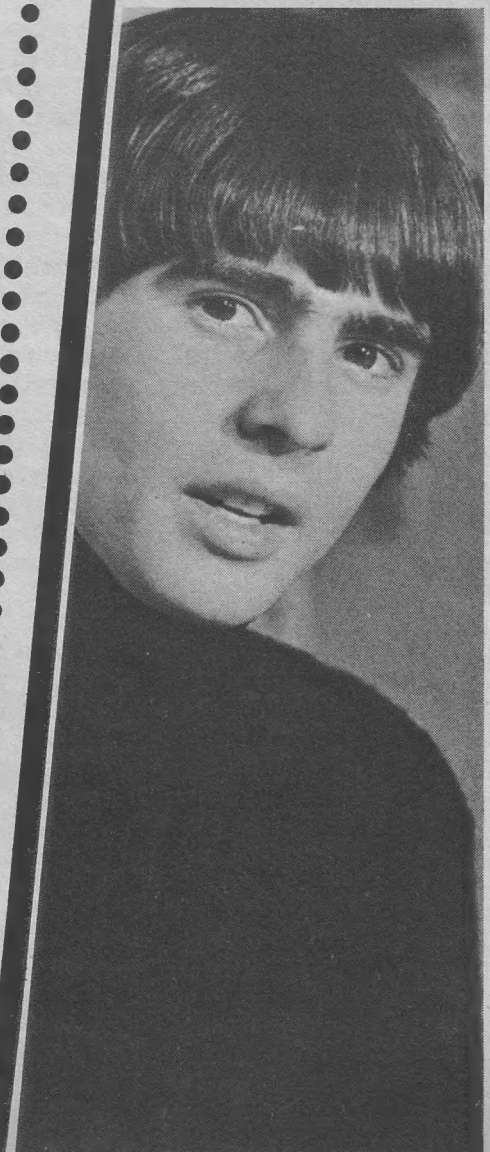
With lots of love to all of you,

David Jones



Tiger Beat says:

Davy DOES



Davy's very thoughtful, very kind letter should be sufficient to silence his critics about dating or being photographed with girls. But TiGER BEAT feels so strongly about this selfish element of fans who want Davy to do nothing but work and have no life of his own that we decided to state his case and defend his cause.

Davy's not a hermit, after all! As some of his loyal fans put it, just because he is famous doesn't mean he doesn't have the right to freedoms and pleasures of his own. Everyone on this earth has a right to fall in love and get married. And how can anyone find his life partner if he doesn't date a lot of different girls? To hear some jealous fans talk, Davy might as well be a robot put here to wind up and order around to suit their selfish interests. If that were the situation, these so-called fans could feed a set of factors into a computer and settle his whole life!

Are You Hurting Davy?

If you are really Davy's fan, you should let him have some life of his own and permit him to have fun. True fans want him to be happy! Just as he works hard on records, television, movies and personal appearances to make his fans happy. Thoughtless fans who say Davy hurts them should read the following, and then ask themselves if Davy's fans are hurting him!

...FACT. Davy sponsored a contest at his own time and expense to spend a day with his fans. He generously took them to Marineland and then to a fabulous dinner at Micelli's. Plus, he got permission for them to attend a Monkee recording session!

...FACT. When the Monkees did their Hawaiian concert, a little girl riding across town to that concert was badly injured in a car accident. Davy, hearing of her misfortune, went to the hospital with her and held her hand while medics removed slivers of glass from her head!

Another Good Deed

...FACT. At an Eastern concert, a very sick girl confined to a hospital bed was wheeled into the auditorium. The crowd was so vast and she was so immobilized that it looked like she wouldn't even get to hear her idol. Davy, hearing of her predicament, arranged to have her bed placed right up next to the stage so she could see the entire performance from her almost prone position.

...FACT. Innumerable times when reading letters from his fans, something really gets to Davy and he picks up the phone and puts in a personal call—again at his own time and expense.

...FACT. Many times, when on tour, Davy's attention has been called to the presence of fans who have come long distances and waited long hours—sometimes without food or rest—just to hear a concert or get a glimpse of their fave. How often have you read in TiGER BEAT how Davy found places for them to stay and even provided food for them until they could get back home?

He Cares!

Memory is short. These are just a few of Davy's good deeds that fans forget in their self-centered disappointment. But they have all been factually reported in TiGER BEAT.

TiGER BEAT maintains that Davy doesn't attempt to deceive his fans. Everything he does is open and above-board. He is not hiding out a regular girlfriend. As he has said many times, he is looking for his dream girl, his lifetime partner. How else will he ever find her if he has no chance to date all kinds of girls and keep looking?

Davy hurt his fans? It could be that in the fans' unfair judgments, Davy's fans are hurting him!

IT'S NOT THE REAL THING

I'd like to congratulate "A Girl Who Knows" who wrote in about falling in love with a star. She really does know! I know thousands of girls are gonna want to kill me for this, but nobody falls in love with someone they don't even know! Love is something that grows over a period of time and it lasts forever.

I know how all you girls feel who think you love a star, because I've been through it many times, and each time I was sure it was the real thing. It took a guy of my own maturity whom I knew personally to bring me to my senses. Sure, lots of stars will marry fans, but chances are one in a million that you will marry your favorite star!

It's much better to love your boyfriend, because he can love you back! Stars are only to admire from a distance!

DINO FLIPS HER!

I saw the Young Rascals on Kraft Music Hall, and guess what? I fell in love with Dino Danelli right then and there!

I always knew he was just fab, but now I realize how absolutely outasite he really is! When he threw his drumstick in the air in the middle of a song and caught it, I flipped!

KEITH & SUSAN

Have you taken a close look at some of your Keith Moon pics lately? I did, and you know what I discovered? In one picture he looks a lot like that adorable Susan Cowsill!

IT'S DAVY'S JOB!

I think these girls who write in and tell everyone they are going to marry Davy are sick! How can they let a computer tell them if they love him and he loves them?

Besides, I'm sure Davy doesn't think very much of a girl who tells him she's going to marry him! Anyhow, I hope not! That's his job!

So all you "Wives of Davy," let him decide who he is going to marry and not some silly old computer or fortune teller!

A CAVEMAN?

I know that it isn't my place to tell a star how to wear his hair. He should wear it however he feels it looks best. But I think Mike Nesmith's sideburns are just too bad for words! No offense, of course, but they make him look like a caveman!

Well! Now that I said that, I would like to say what I think of teens who send in letters and don't put their real names on them. Are they ashamed to let the readers know who they are? Then why did they bother to write in the first place?

Now that I've blasted my way through this letter, I would like to tell you your magazine is the best on the newsstand, because your reporters don't tell lies about our favorite stars. Keep up the good work!

MARK IS NICE

This is to all TiGER BEAT readers who think stars are conceited and think only of themselves. It's not true, as I found out yesterday when I met Mark Lindsay.

Instead of us asking him questions, he asked us where we lived, etc. Mark was so nice to us, I have a different opinion of stars now! Thank you, Mark, for treating us so nicely!

WHO WAS IT?

In your May TiGER BEAT there was a great article on Billy and Dino's new cars. In one of the pictures, Billy is sitting in his car with a girl.

It's ot that I'm jealous or any- ause whatever makes Billy ood enough for me. But ous I just have to know h him in the picture?

SUGGESTION FOR DINO

I know this is going to sound silly, but could you tell me if Dino Martin shaves yet? I know Billy does, because you can tell by looking at his pictures. Anyway, I think Dino would look good in a mustache. Could somebody give him a suggestion, maybe?

TO PHILA. MONKEE FANS

I was lucky enough to go to the Monkees Concert in Philadelphia. I was in the balcony, Sec. K, Row J, Seat 12. It was the greatest thing that ever happened to me!

I would appreciate it very much if anyone who went to the concert would contact me — especially the girls who kept telling me to shut up!

BEAUTIFUL STORY

I just finished reading "Davy Remembers His Mother" from May TiGER BEAT, and I just felt I had to write you about it!

It's a beautiful story, and it made me stop and think how truly fortunate I am to have both parents and such happy ones at that!

NEARLY THE MONKEES

Would you believe that we nearly have the Monkees right where I live? My girlfriend has a kitten with brown eyes and bushy eyebrows like Davy's. There was a boy at our Monkee concert who looked just like Peter except he was shorter. We know a girl with hair like Micky's. We don't know anyone who looks like Mike though.

TAKE CARE OF HIM!

The story you printed about Mark by his housekeeper, Leslie, was the most heart-warming and nicest stories I've ever read! Leslie is VERY lucky and I'm sure she is well aware of this fact! Yet she really seems to be enjoying herself (what girl in her right mind wouldn't?). She must be absolutely wonderful at so many things as she has made our guy so happy! And a warm thanks to her for that!

I hope to see many more stories like this one. Also Leslie, you're the greatest! Take good care of Mark for us!

GETTING FAT?

I really think Mark Lindsay is the grooviest cat around, but has anyone noticed that he is getting fat? He seems to be getting a double chin! I think his housekeeper Leslie feeds him too much! Does anybody agree?

Lindsay Luvver

AND STILL GROWING!

I'm writing this letter to say something I found out a few minutes ago. When I measured myself to see how tall I was, I found out that I am 6 inches taller than Davy Jones, have one inch to go before I'm Peter Tork's height, 3 inches to reach Micky's height and 4 to be as tall as Mike, which makes me 5'9" tall!

And I must confess, I'm still growing!

A Dreamy Day With Sajid

by Angela Cartwright

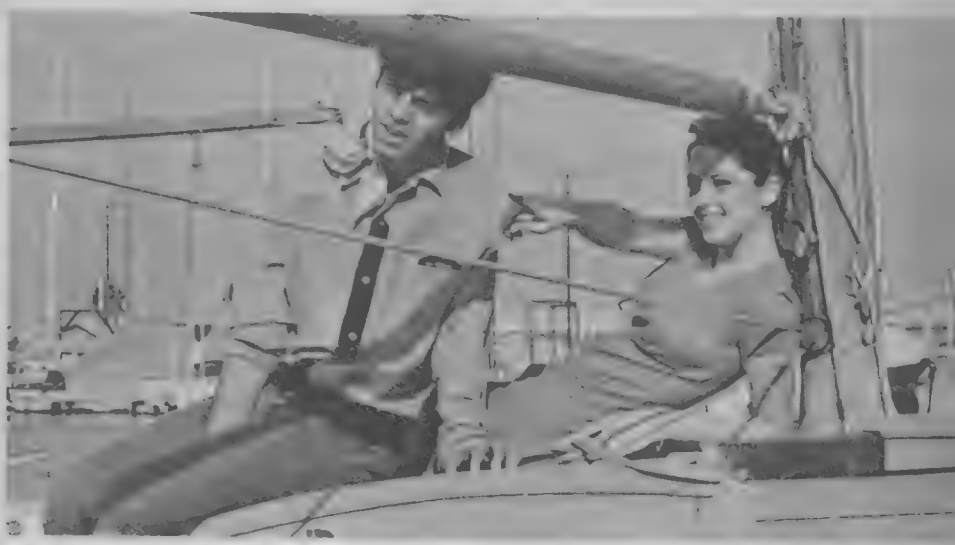
Every girl should have a date with Sajid once in her life! Every girl should be able to feel the way I did on this beautiful day we spent at the beach. Sajid loves girls and he really beams when they're around. The times I've been with Sajid were so much fun I remember everything from the moment we meet until I receive a wonderful good-bye kiss. Saj is one of the greatest, warmest people I've ever met and I hope you can share a dreamy day with Saj sometime just as I have.

Love,
Anji

SAJ REALLY DUG OUR motorcycle ride, but since we just borrowed the bike we only got to go around the block! Saj doesn't have a drivers license yet, so sometimes we would double date with other couples.

BESIDES SEEING THE groovy shops at the beach, Saj arranged for us to take a special tour of this ship. It was neat.

DATING SAJ, there is never a dull moment! We didn't get to go sailing on our date, but a friend of Saj's did tell us all about his boat and promised to take us sailing another day. I can hardly wait!



THE PERFECT END to a perfect day—a lovely kiss from Sajid. Fun, impulsive and sincere is how I'd describe Saj—a dreamy date that I won't forget for a long time!

WHEN SAJID TAKES a girl out he really knows how to show her a great time. We had a wonderful lunch at the "Ports of Call" in San Pedro.

HERE'S LUCIE

Next season was looking pretty dreary—no "Monkees" and no "Maya"—and then the great news came that "Here's Lucy" on CBS-TV would be starring not only the great comedienne Lucille Ball, but also her darling daughter, Lucie and her son, Desi.

In the series Lucie plays Kim Carter, daughter of Lucille Carter (Lucille Ball), a widow with two teenage children, the other being Craig, played by everyone's fave, Desi, Jr. Lucille works for her brother-in-law, Charles Hooper (Gale Gordon), who manages an employment agency which specializes in unusual job opportunities. Can you imagine the zany situations that will lead to for Lucy, Desi and Lucie?

Lucie is now 17 and has been studying voice and acting for several years. While attending Immaculate Heart High School in Hollywood, Lucie was in such school productions as "Oklahoma," "The Boy Friend" and "I Remember Mama." Both she and Desi have made guest appear-

A Tiger Beat Monthly Column
The Monkees write to YOU... by Davy, Peter, Mike and Micky

DAVY TALKING:

So many of you have written me asking about hippies that I want to answer you in this column. First of all I don't think I really know what a hippie is actually. I don't like calling groups of people by certain names because no one is alike and one name sort of implies that you are.

None of us is a hippie. At least we don't think we are. We do dig love beads and many of the peaceful principles some of the hippies stand for, but as far as belonging to any set group or doing any type of set activity, we just don't. We are basically entertainers and almost all of our time is spent working to improve ourselves professionally.

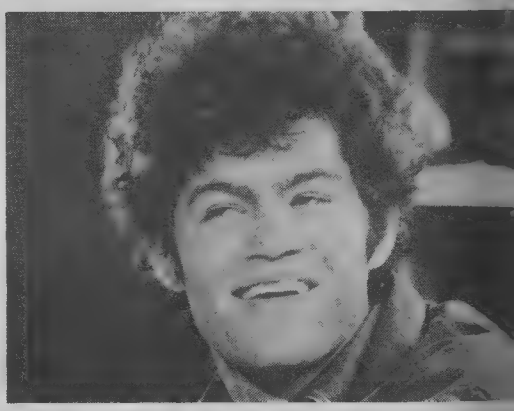
There are a lot of so called hippies on the Sunset Strip in Hollywood. As you know, my house is right above the street so I do see them a lot and some of them I know personally. Most of them are very interesting people, at least the ones I know. They seem friendly and we laugh and talk back and forth when I'm down on the Strip.

They've been criticized for being dirty. Maybe some of them are. I really don't know. But there are untidy people in all walks of life, so here again I don't think any label should be put on these people. Don't get me wrong, I'm not defending hippies. I just think that each of us deserves the right to individuality and to be judged on our own merits and not those of a group.

One girl wrote in and told me she thought I was dressing like a hippie. It really surprised me because outside of wearing love beads I haven't changed the way I dress at all. Maybe she meant my rajah coats, but whatever she meant, I just want you to know that I dress like Davy Jones and no one else I can think of.

The other point I wanted to make is that none of us is really very different than we were when we started out in the Monkees. We've just gotten two years older. If you don't believe me, just turn back the clock and look at yourselves two years ago. I'll bet you've changed a lot, too!

David Jones



MICKY TALKING:

My secret fear is getting up in the morning and not really wanting to do anything. You see, I just can't imagine what living would be like if I didn't have a dozen or more things that I wanted to do in one day.

Life has always been very exciting for me and even when I'm not working on my career I can think of so many other things to do. Before the Monkees came along I was seriously thinking of becoming an architect. And you know something, I might still even do it someday.

There's one word that really scares me in the English language and that's the word, "bored." Just think how boring someone is if he's bored. What that really means is that he can't think of anything to do so he's got to be in pretty bad shape if this happens. That's why I say it scares me to just think of getting up some morning and not be able to think of anything to do. Wow!

I'm not much of a planner for the future. I just sort of let things happen. Sometimes I'll get up in the morning, find out I don't have to work or report to a night recording session, so I get in my car and just drive away to a groovy place and stay all day doing what I want to do. Most of the time I like to be with someone, but not always. Sometimes I'll go by myself. Once I went to a very isolated beach all alone and lay on the sand all day listening quietly to the ocean. I don't think I ever got this relaxed before. I've always wanted to do this again, but I haven't had the chance to do it yet.

My Mom has always said that if I'd relax a little more often and not have so many things to do all the time, that maybe I'd gain some weight. She's probably right, but for right now I don't think it matters that much. When I'm older I'll probably get fat enough without having to worry much about it.

Some people have accused me of not paying attention to them when they speak to me. Maybe this is true because there are so many things popping through my mind all the time that it's hard to pay attention to much else. I'm trying to work on this and give all my attention to the person who's talking to me.

Hope you have a groovy month. I'll see you soon.

Peace Mike Davy

MIKE TALKING:

I don't like to talk about myself. I don't think I'm that interesting and I don't really think fans want to know that much about me. A lot of times I'll get mail addressed to me and in it will be a letter for Davy with a short note to me asking if I'll please get this letter to Davy as they know he gets so much mail he'll probably never see it.

This doesn't hurt my feelings or anything like that. I kind of like it that I'm not the most popular Monkee. I've got my family and my extra work and if I did have to answer a lot of fan mail I just wouldn't have the time.

Also, these girl interviewers who badger us with questions all the time can really get you down. I've told Ann Moses a thousand times that when she can think of some interesting questions to ask me, I'll answer them willingly. But she'd better not chase me around the set trying to get me to list my hates and loves. This turns me off very quickly.

I do believe that my fans want to hear my opinions on certain things and these things I'll talk about but I'm not going to bore myself and my fans talking about my favorite foods and things like this. Fans want to know about putting together Monkee songs and working on the show. Also hobbies like buying boats and taking trips. These things are interesting and fun to talk about, but me, I'm just not that fascinating.

Then there's my family. I can't tell anything very interesting about them either. We have a wonderful life together and I love them very much and outside of that I'm not going to reveal Phyllis' hates and loves either. If she wants to then that's her business. But personally I think she has better things to do.

I don't want to sound ungrateful to magazines and newspapers who do print stories about us, but I just want you to know that when I talk about something that gets printed I want it to be something worth your while to read and understand. Not a bunch of dull copy. So I hope you'll understand now why more stories probably aren't printed about me.

Mike Nesmith

PETER TALKING:

I've been putting off writing this for many months but I guess I'll just have to break down and state my case. What is my ideal girl like? Well, I'll tell you.

She's very much like you IF she's completely herself in every way. By this I mean she can have long hair, short hair, be thin, fat, or tall. But she's got to know who she is in every way, or at least be searching to find out. She must want something out of life and be willing to work hard to get it. She has to depend on herself and more than anything else, she must like herself.

Right now there are many girls in my life who fit this description. They are warm, natural, understanding people who think about themselves as people, not just as girls. Too often I've seen girls fall back on their femininity as the basis for their lives. This doesn't work. You've got to be a real person before you can be truly feminine, especially in the eyes of someone else.

A girl's looks are important. I'm not pretending they aren't. But I've known many girls who are far from beautiful who make you think they are by what they say and what they do. There's a way about them, a way they think about themselves that really catches your imagination. Suddenly you're looking beneath their outer appearance and seeing true beauty because inside they stand for something.

Ok, so you say to me that this is easier said than done. I know that's true because in school it seems that you're expected to be like everyone else if you want to make the 'in' scene. Well, remember this, when you get out of school there really is no 'in crowd' or 'in scene'. It's only you and your life. This is all that matters and if you've copied everyone else all through school instead of just being yourself, then you'll have to change all those habits around and become really you.

You'll be pretty surprised, I think, if you start doing this today. At first, there may be a few catty remarks thrown your way, and a few surprised glances and some "Get her? Who does she think she is?" But once they find out you know who you are, there'll be some pretty exciting times in store for you!

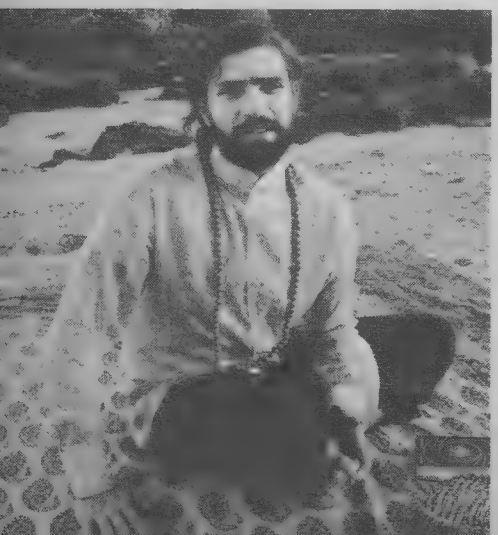
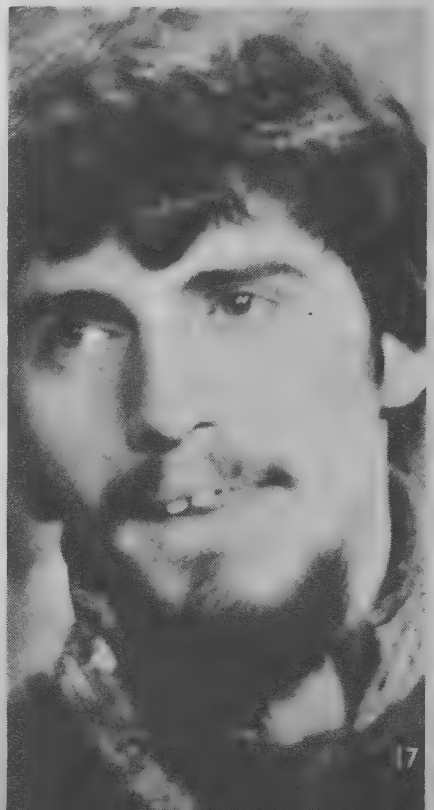
THE RASCALS





How Different (And Alike) Are Davy and Sajid?

Sajid and Davy. Davy and Sajid. They aren't a new singing team or anything—don't get upset!—but they are probably the two most talked about young men in Hollywood. And wow! do people in Hollywood love to analyze, probe, discuss and just plain gossip about anyone who stands still in the city for more than two minutes.

Unfortunately, most of the people who do the talking have never met the stars they're talking about and manage to say some of the most ridiculous things imaginable—especially when it comes to Sajid and Davy. They just take their television images and go from there, instead of trying to find out how each is really alike or different.

MORE DIFFERENT

Sajid and Davy are more different than alike, despite the fact that they share the same astrological sign, Capricorn. They share many of the qualities attributed to Capricorns, like being reserved and sometimes suspicious of others, but each possesses these qualities in his own special way.

Davy and Sajid have a six year age difference between them and this accounts for Davy being more sophisticated than Sajid and looking for less youthful ways of having fun. If you were going to date Davy, you'd probably go to candlelight dinner and then play pool. If you went with Sajid, you might chomp on a hamburger and go ice skating afterwards.

DAVY TALKS SHOP

Davy's conversation leans towards show business much more than Sajid's. That's because Saj is still in school and has classes, sports and teachers to talk about while Davy spends all his time either recording, filming or touring. He has little opportunity for outside interests.

Saj talks about India more than Davy talks about England, probably because Saj has been in the U.S. for less time than Davy. Then, too, Davy considers himself very American in many ways and probably thinks about England less than Sajid dwells on his life in India.

SAJ A LONER

If you ran into Sajid on the street, he'd probably be by himself. He's a loner unlike Davy, who is always accompanied by anywhere from two to ten friends. Because of this, it's easier to talk to Sajid than Davy and you feel you can get to know Sajid better because you don't have to share him with several other people.

Both Sajid and Davy are extremely thoughtful—especially Davy. He's the type of guy who makes you feel at home by putting his arm around you or smiling at just the right time to let you know that no matter how foreign you may feel in a situation, you've got him to lean on or look to for guidance. If you're on a date with Davy, he never lets you or anyone forget that you are with him and not floating around loose.

SAJ MIGHT CALL

With Saj, you're more on solid ground than in a type of Davy Jones dream world. Sajid might let you suffer more than than Davy would—he doesn't condition your path; he'll let you stick your foot in your mouth—but he's more real than Davy too. If you met Sajid briefly and then he came to your town, he just might give you a call. Davy would probably wait for you to contact him.

Sajid might join you in some kooky, crazy, insane antics without a second thought. Davy would think it out clearly, then decide if he wants to tag along. And he wouldn't do anything too off beat.

Both Sajid and Davy, for all their differences, are alike in that they are both fun, dreamy, thoughtful, nice, ambitious, sincere and cute.

As a matter of fact, if you wanted to sum up Davy and Sajid in one word, you'd do an outasite job by saying they are both GROOVY!

SONNY AND CHER have never stopped working hard and today they are busier than ever. We can really dig Sonny's new moustache, how about you?

IT'S HAPPENING

Tick tock, click clock, dickory dock, the teen time pendulum is swinging away from the plastic platters to the silver screen.

The record biz is hurting at the cash register and the movie biz is booming at the box office.

Club and concert promoters, eyeing the empty seats, are cutting fees for all but a few artists and groups. The Cream and the Doors are the biggest concert attractions of the day.

Some famous minstrels may have to moonlight as movie ushers, take in washing and ironing, or pump gas and check your oil to make the payments on their fancy pads, wheels and all that electronic gear.

Pop music is better than ever, man, so howcum? Some say it's reached a saturation point. There are too many fabulous bands, singers and songs, and too many other entertainments, competing for the teen-agers' allowances.

Therefore movie makers are pushing to get the teen cash. (Fan mail to actors and actresses, long a mere trickle, has become a flood, movie and TV studios tell us.)

From Burbank to Bombay, turned-on cameras are filming youth-flavored stars in youth-flavored scripts, ranging from heavy drama a la Chastity, directed by Sonny and played by Cher, to laff-grabbers like I Love You, Alice B. Toklas, a Peter Seller starrer. Only a few of the new youthpix will be the clunkers that the movie masterminds used to think kids were satisfied with.

A cliche-ridden clunker, judging by the script outline we saw, will be Free Grass, about guess what. Lana Wood, Richard Beymer and Russ Tamblyn committed themselves to the leading roles. The two boys haven't screen acted for years. No starting actor ever had a better launching pad than Beymer had in West Side Story which has become a screen classic. However, thereafter Beymer steered an erratic course and lost himself in space. Lana, if we rightly remember, hasn't worked since she was written out of Peyton Place.

Warren Beatty, one of Natalie's five ex-fiances, and Julie Christie, the miniskirted, mod reb from London, are so hung up on each other they won't work on separate continents if they don't have to.

Wiggy Twiggy has succumbed to an acute attack of ambition for movie fame. Shoo-be-doo-be-doo-be-do-dan-day.

She penned a plot about a skinny ninny with round brown eyes, rather large feet and flat chest who rose from a Soho slum to become a famous model, the toast of fashionable London, who attends high class society bashes where dukes and earls drink champagne from her rhinestoned slippers.

The well-spelled neat-typed script she took to Apple Films for approved credit financing. Beatlemen John and Paul dig Le Twig but not enough to sink a fortune in her future as the new Elizabeth Taylor.

The Twiggy and Yogi fads have cooled out somewhat. The newest hottest personality of the ongoing moment is Tiny Tim, darling of the TV talk shows who blows kisses and twits the ukelele whilst tipetytoeing through his tulip bed. Tiny's gleaming teeth, shining hair, alluring profile, physique magnifique, tailored elegance and soaring soprano voice have everybody blowing their cool!

On Hollywood Boulevard, a young man ambles along, hands in his pockets, eyes glancing in shop windows. You couldn't call him either homely or handsome: hair and eyes are neutral brown, the nose is a trifle too large and the frame a trifle too short. He wears an ordinary Madras sports shirt, shapeless jacket, loose beige slacks with outmoded pleats and cuffs, and plain tan loafers.

You wouldn't give him a second look. Nothing about him would make you remember you saw him . . . and yet he comes on unforgettably in The Graduate which earned him an Oscar nomination for Best Performance By an Actor, and a fat role in a coming attraction, Midnight Cowboy. He is Dustin Hoffman.

Introvert Dustin is shy, quiet and reserved. Columnist Dorothy Manners described him as "an utter ego-less marvel . . . though ego is a vital requirement for a star." Johnny Carson viewers got another impression when Dustin told the 12,000,000 audience, "I'm not as good-looking as Rock Hudson but I have something special."

Dustin Hoffman is one of a kind. So is the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. He laid his meditation thing on the minds of the celebrity mob and it was groovy while it lasted but he blew it.

The Beatles moved out of the Holy Hindu's Himalayan Academy when swarms of press pests and then a movie company with tons of gear moved in. Jazzman-turned-filmmaker Paul Horn had a dealie with the guru to shoot a Cineamascope Color Super-Colossal epic on the meditation messiah and his celebrated disciples and apostles. The quiet mountain retreat became a public happening which the Beatles wanted no part of. But, Paul (McCartney) points out that meditation is ancient wisdom and knowledge translated into modern terms that young people of today can understand. He or his pals will never bum-rap it.

Meanwhile how it is at home is that you can't always distinguish between the no-biz hippies and the show-biz nobles. They look alike.

Meanwhile, back home, styles the hippies started last summer and the summer before are what the exclusive social swingers are wearing today. Only more so, you might say, as they have the loot to lay on genuine gems and far-out frillies made of fabrics no kid could afford.

We're at a post-premiere party. Look over there, see bearded James Coburn rapping with bearded Tony Curtis, splendored in ruffle-sleeved lace shirt, velvet pants, Pilgrim-buckled pumps and jeweled necklaces jangling on his manly bosom. Richard Harris, laughing Irishman, actor-singer, is a blaze of glory in ribbon shirt, tassled jacket, belled trousers, high suede boots and chains of brilliants.

Everywhere you see the male fashion revolution converting actors, musicians, composers, choreographers and other creative cats into preening peacocks, sometimes brighter and more colorful than peahens. The wearing of turtleneck sweaters has replaced shirts and ties on the most conservative cats: David McCallum, Johnny Carson, Dick Van Dyke, Pat Boone, Andy Williams, Martin Landau, Chad Everett, David Heidson, and Joey Bishop.

Hair is something else. Advice pusher Ann Landers columned one hard fact, "Hair has become one of the most passionately argued subjects of our time, ranking third after Vietnam and race riots . . ." So far so good, then she perpetrates this old hackneyed wheeze, ". . . I believe the male teen-age craze for long hair is rooted in rebellion against parents, society or whatever they happen to be fighting."

squares for his longish hair, is not really in rebellion against his parents or society, no matter what Angry Ann avers.

Working actors have to wear their hair to fit their roles but they suit themselves 'tween pics. During the past few months I've seen over-the-collar hair and strange facial decor on James Mason, Adam West, Richard Chamberlain, Michael J. Pollard, Richard Harris, Paul Petersen, Terence Stamp, David Hemmings, Bob Random, James Coburn, Peter Fonda and pappy Henry Fonda, to name a few. Adornments include ear-to-ear carpeting, mutton chips, goatees, chin spinach and, on the upper lip, handlebars, soup strainers and cookie dusters.

IS TINY TIM for real or just a Mrs. Miller-type put on. No one is sure.

Portrait of Noel. The Harrisons, Noel and Sara, keep so busy they never have need for head shrinks or marriage counsellors. They live twenty minutes from Los Angeles' Sunset Strip in a rambling abode where they preside over six dogs, five cats and one monkey, with a few fleas apiece, three horses, ten chickens, one rooster, two birds, a mess of white mice, and a brood of four children.

The Harrisons are busier than a pair of centipedes with the itch. Besides child-rearing, animal-keeping and home-making, Sara carves out time from her busy hours to crusade for such pet social projects. And Noel, besides his acting and recording careers, and managing his combination home-ranch-zoo, involves himself in presidential campaigning, charity fund-raising and the wars on poverty, prejudice and ignorance.

They ought to do a movie together. Married pairs who have co-starred in films and TV shows include Richard Burton and Liz Taylor, Robert Culp and France Nuyen, Peter Sellers and Bret Ecklund, Ryan O'Neil and Leigh-Taylor Young, Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, and Martin Landau and Barbara Bain.

A new pair now being added to the roster, two of today's most colorful people, have just wrapped up their first together pic: Anthony Newley and Joan Collins, in Can Heironymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?

Well, why not?

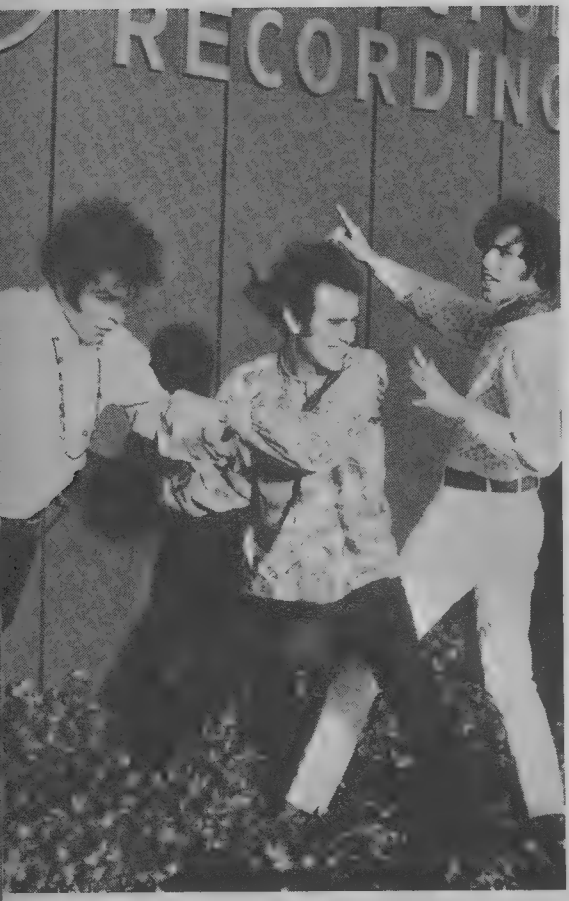
Back on the scene again are Phil, Drake and Smitty with their new, groovy organist, Ron. Watch out for this heavy group, they're Outasite!

THE BROTHERHOO



For too many months there was no word from or about the Brotherhood. Many fans just assumed they had quit the business like so many other artists that come and go so quickly. But, no!

Suddenly in May the Brotherhood, with new organist Ron, were back! They had kept hidden for months rehearsing, writing material and negotiating that "just right" record contract.

They were also hiking, camping and traveling—grooving on the things they each loved, but had missed for so long. They were growing as a group and they were growing as people.

In May, they emerged with some of the greatest sounds to be heard on RCA Victor records. They were singing beautiful songs that had come from their beautiful and peaceful thoughts.

They began performing live again, first at a press party at Arthur's in Beverly Hills, and then to their favorite audience—the young people at pop concerts. The young turned-on people from five to fifty that could dig the sounds and images they were laying down.

Now that the Brotherhood are back, take a new look at the new faces, take a fresh listen to the fresh sounds, and don't miss out on a single good vibe you feel going down!

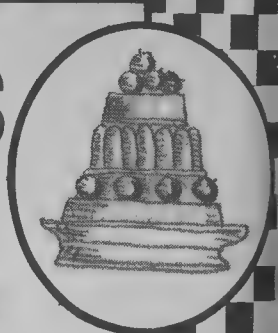
That You Can Make



Dino Danelli, and all the Rascals, fell in love with Hawaii the minute they caught a glimpse of Diamondhead from their jet.

Dino's favorite of all the foods he sampled was Polynesian pork, which combines a Polynesian meat sauce with Chinese noodles. Dino especially digs this meal because it's not too difficult to prepare and he says that even when he cooks it in his New York apartment it's almost like being back in Hawaii!

POLYNESIAN PORK

- 2 pounds pork tenderloin, cut in strips
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits
- ½ cup bottled Russian dressing
- 1½ tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 medium green pepper, thinly sliced
- ½ cup onion rings

Cook pork in butter until browned; drain off fat. Drain juice from pineapple tidbits; reserve fruit. Combine juice with next 4 ingredients. Stir in water, which has been mixed with cornstarch. Pour over meat. Cook, stirring, until sauce has thickened. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Add green pepper, onion, and pineapple tidbits. Simmer 15 minutes. Serve over Chinese noodles or hot cooked rice. Serves six.

Peter Noone's mum and dad own and operate a great resort hotel on the British sea coast as a hobby and if that doesn't qualify Mrs. Noone as a groovy cook, nothing will. Even though she keeps very busy around the hotel keeping the guests happy, she still takes time to make Peter's favorite brownies for him to take on tour.

The chewy bars never last long on the road with Karl, Keith, Lek and Berry always sneaking into Herman's room and snapping up the treats. So—Mrs. Noone often sends packages of them to all the boys on tour! Be sure and try this great recipe that turns those British boys on!

CHEWY CHOCOLATE BROWNIES

- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1¼ cups packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 oz. unsweetened chocolate, melted
- ½ cup flour
- 1 cup broken pecans

When eggs are light, add sugar, vanilla, and melted chocolate. Stir in flour and ¾ cup nuts. Spread in a greased 8-inch square pan and sprinkle the remaining nuts over the batter. Bake in a preheated 325 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cut into bars while warm. Makes 24 bars.

Jon Provost keeps busy dividing his time between acting and school work and that can make a guy pretty hungry. Since he lives at home, he gets to enjoy the wonderful dishes his mother prepares. His favorite of all of them is Italian spaghetti, of course, his mother's own recipe.

Along with this dinner Jon likes to have a green salad with blue cheese dressing, hot buttered French bread and lots and lots of milk to drink. The Provost family likes to make the evening authentic by having Spumone ice cream for dessert.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

1 pound ground round
2 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup chopped onions
1 small clove garlic
½ teaspoon Rosemary
1 can tomatoes
1 can tomato paste
Salt and pepper to taste

Fry dry ingredients in olive oil. Add tomatoes and tomato paste and simmer for one hour. Pour above over 1 pound cooked spaghetti.

You wouldn't think with all the work—TV, records, movies—that Sonny and Cher do that Cher would ever have time for cooking. She does, though, and she really has a ball whipping up her own special dishes. When they moved to their Encino home they made sure that there was a large, modern kitchen.

Cher's favorite dish is a quick, easy-to-make chilled salad that she can whip up fast when company drops in for an afternoon swim. It's perfect for a summer lunch, you'll love it.

MACARONI TUNA SALAD

1 package (7 or 8 oz.) small elbow macaroni, cooked and chilled
1 family-size (double) can of light tuna
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup sweet pickle relish (drained)
¼ cup finely chopped onions
1 teaspoon white vinegar
2 eggs, hard-cooked and finely chopped

Combine ingredients and chill for at least one hour before serving on lettuce. Makes six to eight servings.

Sally Field works so hard on her weekly TV series "The Flying Nun" that she seldom has to worry about dieting. She often takes an afternoon snack to work with her so she doesn't have to depend on the food machines at the studio commisary.

Sally has always enjoyed cooking, so it's only natural that she would cook-up her own on-the-set snacks. Her very favorite dessert is Banana Nut Cake, for which she has a special recipe. There's only one problem when she takes this treat to work —keeping the other actors and actresses from eating it before she does!

BANANA NUT CAKE

1 package (1 pound, 2½ ounces) white cake mix
2 eggs
½ cup water
1 cup mashed bananas
Cream Nut Frosting (recipe below)

Combine all ingredients except Frosting. Beat throughly until smooth, about 5 minutes. Turn into two greased and floured 9-inch layer pans. Bake in a pre-heated 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Fill and frost cooked layers with Creamy Nut Frosting.

CREAMY NUT FROSTING

½ cup butter or maragarine
1 tablespoon vegetable shortening
4 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup evaporated milk
1 cup ground nuts

Cream together butter, shortening and sugar until smooth. Stir in milk. Frost cake. Sprinkle nuts over the top and sides.

Marleen and Maureen are my older twin sisters. They're both 17, but they're not really identical twins as you can see. Maureen (right) is 5'3½" tall and Marleen is only 5'1½" tall. Maureen's more of a home-type. She wants 23 children. Marleen wants to be a really good actress.

The True Story of My Sisters and Brother

By Terry Cavaretta, 15

Hi! I'm Terry Cavaretta and I want to introduce you to my sisters and brother and tell you a little bit about our lives. Maybe some of you have met us already because we do get around the country a lot. You see we're called The Flying Cavarettas because we're a trapeze act and we travel with the circus.

It all began way back in 1960 when my older sister Kandy was only 12-years-old. We were living in Florida at the time and the city's recreation department decided to organize a youth circus. Kandy was already pretty good at gymnastics and had taken up the flying trapeze as a sport. But pretty soon this hobby of hers began to really change our lives.

I was only five at the time but I sort of got jealous of how much fun Kandy was having so I decided to try some aerial work, too. I was scared to death the first time up, but after I got over my nerves I just loved it.

We kept doing our act in the backyard of our home for more than three years. Daddy helped us set up our first equipment in the yard and it's been part of our lives ever since. Anyway in 1965, Kandy and I got our first chance to go on the road with a circus.

We went along with an act called the Flying Alexanders, one of the best acts in the business. When we came home we noticed a glimmer of envy in my brother Jimmy's eyes and also my older twin sisters looked as though they were missing something.

My mom and dad are wonderful parents and they saw what was happening, so they sold the drive-in restaurant they owned in Florida and let us become one big trapeze act. A lot of people said they didn't think we could do it, but we did.

So since then, it's been pack, unpack, pack again. We've been on the road almost continually for more than two years, but now we've settled down in California. While we were traveling so much we did our school work through correspondence courses. Please, if you've heard this is easy, don't believe it. It seemed like we never could get our work done and then we had to practice our act a lot, too.

We didn't really get much of a chance for a social life traveling with the circus. Kandy and Jimmy used to share the driving of our camper, which sleeps four, while Daddy drove our car behind. We traveled from circus date to circus date this way. I loved the traveling and seeing the new places. We also got to meet so many new people. One time we had a jump from the "Stampede" at Calgary, Canada, to an amusement park on Lake Ponchetrain near New Orleans. Wow, was that ever a long drive!

Now that we're living in California, we've set up equipment in our backyard again and practice every day. But more than this, we're very excited about something else. We've just made a record together. Yes, we sing, too! Anyway, I think this is almost the high point of our career so far. Secretly we all want to be in show business and the trapeze act is only part of what we want to do.

My sisters and I love to act and my brother Jimmy has a very good singing voice. We all laugh about singing sometimes. Wouldn't it be wild if we performed our record while we were flying through the air! Well, stranger things than this have happened in show business before.

It's been fun talking to you and I really hope you like our record.

I'm Terry, age 15. I'm 5½' tall, weigh 108 lbs. and have brown hair and brown eyes. I live in Covina, California where my hobbies include horseback riding, swimming, dancing, and flying kites. My biggest goal in life is to be a good actress and to be happy.

Kandy is 21 and she's the one who got our whole act started. She's 5'1½" tall, weighs 108 lbs. and has brown hair and eyes. She's really wonderful in the act, but she's also great at water skiing, scuba diving, and can dance rings around any other girl.

The Flying Cavarettas

This is Jimmy. He's 18, is 5'6½" tall, weighs 145 lbs. and has brown hair and brown eyes. He's crazy about cars and motorcycles and girls in that order. In his spare time Jimmy is a people watcher. Even when he's performing he likes to look out into the audience.

Come along on a personally guided tour!

Dack Rambo's Bachelor Pad

High above the hustling city below and just over the hill from Davy Jones' house you find the grooviest bachelor pad you've ever seen. It's groovy—not just because of its great furniture or spectacular view, but also because of its handsome occupant—Dack Rambo!

On these pages you can join Dack as he takes you on a personally guided tour of his off-the-set retreat. Enjoy your visit—you've got the greatest guide in town!

DACK ADMITS THAT his bachelor pad is really a retreat from the bustling city life. He works so hard all day long he's usually eager to get back to the comfortable setting of his home. At left, Dack is chewing on a cigarette, which he often does when he's nervous, but he doesn't smoke.

IN DACK'S MODERN kitchen there is still a need for a cook book. He says all he can do is boil water and cook eggs. But we don't believe it.

A GUY WHO LIKES to keep up on what's happening, Dack keeps a copy of Tiger Beat right on his coffee table!

DACK NAMES HIS fave group as "The Fifth Dimension" and keeps quite large album library handy.

THOUGH HE HASN'T READ every book here, Dack enjoys reading very much and hopes to get through each book some day. Below, he checks out the great city view with a powerful telescope. At night, he digs to gaze at the stars with the telescope and tries to spot the different constellations.

JIM EDMUNDSON, of Continental Security Guards in Phoenix, escorted Davy from the airport to the hospital. Jim has served as head of security on past Monkee tours.

These are Davy's words about 11-year-old Rhonda Cook, whose life took a sudden and tragic change on a dark Wednesday afternoon.

Eleven-year-old Rhonda Cook and seven-year-old Patti Smith were happily crossing Cave Creek Road in Phoenix, Arizona, late one afternoon when it happened.

Suddenly a pickup truck roared down on them and both were hit before they knew what was happening. The album Rhonda fondly carried was smashed in the street where she lay unconscious. It was the Monkees' latest album.

The next thing Rhonda knew she was lying quietly in a hospital bed. They had amputated her left leg.

Roy Cook, Rhonda's father, reported to a newspaper that Rhonda's favorite performer was Davy Jones. He also mentioned that a letter from Davy might make the next few weeks a bit brighter for his daughter.

What no one expected was what happened next. Davy, hearing about Rhonda's condition, took an immediate flight to Phoenix.

"He flew here as soon as he heard," beamed spunky Rhonda. "And the first thing he did was to give me a kiss. And, it was right on the mouth, too. And it was nice. It was like nothing else."

When Davy discovered at the hospital that Rhonda's record player is monophonic, he promised to send her a stereo rig, complete with a supply of records of her choice. He also gave her a stereo slide viewer, autographed the Monkee posters she had in her room and promised to send her his own, personal tambourine.

"And you know what else he did?" Rhonda asks. "When it came time to give me his autograph, he couldn't find anything to write on. So he pulled out his driver's license, autographed that, and gave it to me."

Davy also gave Rhonda his private telephone number.

IF SHE EVER NEEDS ME.....

DAVY signs his autograph for Rhonda Cook on his own driver's license. Rhonda's mother looks on.

"I don't know what I'll ever be able to do for her," Davy said, "but if she ever needs me, or if she just wants to say hello, all she has to do is call me collect."

Because of Patti Smith's condition, Davy was able to visit her only briefly. But he left Patti smiling and holding a Monkee album . . .

Rhonda's mother was thrilled with Davy's visit. "He told her not to let that leg hold her back in any way, and told her about a test he'd taken when he was 11 that was supposed to show whether he'd be a success or a failure. It showed that he'd be a failure, but that didn't stop him."

Jim Edmundson of Continental Security Guards in Phoenix, who was protecting the singing group on tours, escorted Davy from the airport to the hospital. Edmundson held back newsmen hoping for an interview.

"Davy doesn't want this to turn into some kind of a promotional deal," Edmundson explained. "He just wants to do what he can for the girl."

"I've seen a lot of celebrities from time to time," said Rhonda's father. "And I never figured that most of them were anything special, as people go. But this boy, Davy . . . well, there's no way to say how wonderful he is. This visit is something she'll never forget, never."

Davy couldn't do anything about Rhonda's leg, but his visit proved to be better medicine than any other. It put a smile back on Rhonda's face and it hasn't disappeared since.

Any Tiger Beat readers wishing to drop Rhonda a get-well card can address it to: Rhonda Cook, 12832 N. 22nd Street, Phoenix, Arizona.

I'LL BE THERE!

 THE ASSOCIATION ***

IN LONDON THE ASSOCIATION took "Time For Livin'" and for sightseeing. They were only there three days but fit plenty of shopping time into their busy schedule of TV and live appearances.

bringing it all back home

On their first trip to Europe the zany Association carry on the wildest shopping spree you've ever seen!

by Marilyn Doerfler

In the midst of a successful overseas tour, the Association inquired about the purchase of Europe; however, the world powers were out to lunch, you see, so they had to be satisfied with bits and pieces. And, then, it did occur to all that there was limited space in the suitcases.

However, being the Association, the bits and pieces were of a little different type than the typical tourist brings home. We zoomed past souvenir shops, for instance, but never failed to stop at the first interesting little toy shop, car showroom, knick knack stores, etc.

LARRY'S NEW TOY

Larry took advantage of the first stop on the full schedule and while others slept, he went shopping in Rome. Larry seemed to miss the point of "when in Rome" and wound up buying a Ferrari P4, which cost him something like 32,500 lire or about 50 dollars. Now don't get excited—cars are not quite that cheap in Europe... this one was about two-and-a-half feet long and ran by remote control! Or, at least, it ran by remote control for the day we

LARRY

were in Rome. Then, it stopped.

So, the guys, one at a time, took a crack at fixing it. The last pit stop crew to investigate the car failure included Jim and Larry, who very seriously discussed the pros and cons of how to go about getting it back in running order (which doesn't seem unusual, except that the discussion took place in the plush Royal Lancaster's lobby)! The double-takes from those who came upon this little scene were quite funny, to say the least!

HALLWAY RACING

Finally, in Brussels, Larry managed to find the trouble and proceeded to demonstrate the car, after donning a black wool cape that he had bought that day. The hallway seemed like the perfect speedway and all I've got to say is that we were very lucky no one came around the corner at the same time Larry was chasing the little red Ferrari down the hall with the black cape flying behind him. Can you imagine what that scene would do to someone's head... especially if he remembered any old Dracula movies??

It also seems that we are not able to go anywhere without running into "Association" type people. One such person happened to be our English photographer, Richard, who joined in the fun and games at once.

BRIAN'S BIG DEAL

It also happened that Richard owned a Mini Cooper S, which Brian fell in love with almost immediately. I say, almost, because why fall in love with something that takes the form of the "impossible dream"? On the other hand, it seemed that Richard wanted to buy an ambulance... like I said, we find our own kind... and he needed some cash. One and one most certainly make two and Brian now has a Mini Cooper S and Richard has the down payment for his ambulance.

Of course, there were the customary purchases... Jim bought a black suit while shopping on King's Road in Chelsea and Terry bought a leather coat. Thinking that they had done the tourists' bit, so-to-speak, they really did a turnabout when Peter, the Association's road manager, turned up wearing a typical, blue British suit, complete with vest. Pete now wonders if he can get away with it on the Sunset Strip without the "get him" comments, but one thing for sure, he'll try.

HERE THEY ARE doing a TV show in Germany. Notice Ted's new beard? The guys also got to Holland and Belgium. They loved Europe; hope to return.

Be My Friend!

by Sally Field

I was sitting here in my new house trying to decide what I should write to you this month when the telephone rang and someone I really like asked me for a date! I was—correction—I am so excited that I feel like dancing around the room. Then it dawned on me that I have my topic for this issue, something important. I want to answer those of you who have written to me and asked why I date older men.

What brought this to mind is that the man who just called me for a date is about seven years older than I am. I know some of you are probably saying, "How could she date someone so much older than she is?" because I used to ask the same thing when I heard one of my friends was dating a man who wasn't exactly in her age bracket. But can't you imagine dating, say one of your faves who may be several years older than you?

The first thing you have to find out when you think about going out with someone older than you is what exactly is an "older man." I don't like that term because it always makes me think of someone with grey hair and a back problem but I guess we'll have to use it anyway. An older man, to me, is just someone who is a few years older than I am—like maybe we wouldn't have been at the same school together at any time, even if he was a senior and I was a freshman.

When I first started filming Gidget, I was so busy that I didn't have time anymore to date boys my age. But I was constantly having to go to meetings and filmings and appointments and openings, usually with someone who was much older than I was. Once in awhile, the studio would set up a date for me and often times, I'd go with someone who was connected with the studio or my business interests.

At first, it was terrible! I felt out of place and I didn't have anything to talk about and I thought I'd never be happy dealing with men who were older than I was. We just didn't have anything in common. I spent most of my time smiling and nodding—hoping I didn't have to open my mouth—and he probably spent most of his time wishing he could get home and leave me at a baby sitters or something.

Finally, I began to feel less awkward and more in place. Unconsciously, I was starting to hold down my end of the conversation and become something more than just a tongue-tied teenage girl.

One day I sat down and compared myself with the Sally Field of a year before and I was surprised at how much I'd changed. So when a man I had come to know through Gidget asked me out, I didn't think twice about accepting the date—it just was, and I'm sure he didn't either. We just had a good time!

I think that if I hadn't been ready to date someone who was older than I was, I would have constantly noticed that he was older than I was, that he was looking at things with several years more experience and sophistication than I had. But I never had a chance to think about it and it never crossed my mind, even briefly. We communicated as two people with similar interests—not as an older man and a young girl. I never stopped to think about the fact that he was older than I

When I was younger, I always looked at pictures of girls with older men and I thought it seemed so daring and dangerous on the girl's part. But I also thought a date with an older man could be a pretty dull evening because the conversation would be limited to things like the stock market. "After all," I asked myself, "what could they have in common?"

Well, I discovered that you can have everything in common. You both live in the same world so you have current events to talk about plus fashions and hobbies and Hollywood and finally your problem becomes trying NOT to talk so much and let him get a word in once in awhile.

You can go places like movies and bowling and to football games or baseball games and out to restaurants and I often take people I date up to see my parents. Like I told you before, the reason I can date older men is because they don't seem like older men. Age has nothing to do with it. They can be older than me or younger than me. As long as we get along, that's all that counts.

Love,

Sally Field

Sally with some-time date and co-star, Alejandro Rey.

MEET THE GROOVY CAST OF DARK

David Henesey

David Henesey is an experienced actor at ten with six solid years of experience behind him. "I've done commercials, stage work, and now television," David states in his confident professional manner. "I'm not sure which I've enjoyed most. Doing performances in front of a live audience is always very exciting but I think that 'Dark Shadows' and the other people on the cast make it the most fun of all the things I've done so far."

Coming from an acting family that includes his mother, actress Jeanne Avery, and his sisters Sharon and Dianne, David admits that he always feels at home performing. "Acting and being around showbusiness people is part of everything I do. I like it very much and I like the way I get to go to school."

Since David is busy with 'Dark Shadows' so much of the time he goes to a special school in New York City. "It's called The Lincoln Square Academy and I take several different kinds of courses including math and language, which are my favorites. I'd like to be a doctor someday but that will be after I finish as an actor."

Born in Glenridge, New Jersey, David now lives in New York City. "I like the city a lot. There are always things to do. On Saturday and Sunday I can go to Central Park. That's probably the most fun part of the city."

Joel Crothers

Joel Crothers is a young man who is always willing to work hard to get what he wants. "I decided I wanted to be an actor even before I went to college. I'm from New York originally and I grew up in the city. Even though I spent most of my high school years playing soccer, tennis, and basketball I knew that acting was an exciting field."

"I was accepted at Harvard after high school and I decided about then to get into acting. I didn't want to leave college, of course, not many people get an opportunity to go to as fine a place as Harvard, but I wanted to get more and more involved in acting."

In order to keep up his acting Joel traveled every summer to Los Angeles. "I'd finish college for the year and go to L.A. to work on films and television. I did a lot of things during those years and the years directly after college including Broadway and off-Broadway shows, television shows like Studio One, Kraft Theater, Armstrong Circle Theater and Justice, plus some really fun appearances in series like Have Gun, Will Travel, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, and The Defenders."

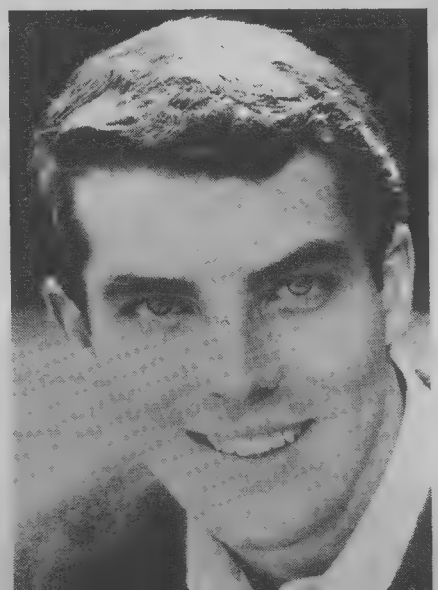
"Then a chance to do 'Dark Shadows' came along and I've been there ever since. I like living in my old home town, New York, and working on television here. I hope the series just keeps going on and on."

Alexandra Moltke

"I spent several summers living in Denmark and Ireland and that prepared me for 'Dark Shadows'," Alexandra Moltke who plays Victoria Winters on the series, explained. "The rented house in Ireland is surrounded by moors and a huge mountain. It is pretty much like the mansion in 'Shadows' and the countryside is very much the same."

Now that Alexandra has settled down to her new surroundings as Victoria on the show she hasn't had much time to get back to Ireland. "I haven't really vacationed for a while now," she admits. "I do spend a lot of my free time relaxing however. I live with my mother and father in New York and I'm working on a special project right now."

"I want to illustrate and write a novel for children and I've been working hard at it. Of course I get a little bit of help from my sister Vicky and 'Whimsey' who is my pet Norfolk terrier."



SHADOWS

Jonathan Frid

Like the rest of the cast of "Dark Shadows", Jonathan Frid enjoys sitting around his apartment in New York when he is not working on the show. "I like to sit around and relax in my apartment. There are problems, however, with having fans and trying to relax at the same time. I'm a slow studier when it comes to the script for the show and so I need to concentrate at home. I spend most of my evenings and weekends working on upcoming shows."

"So when my phone starts to ring with fans calling to say hello, I really have a problem. It's not that I don't want to hear from my fans. I get 1500 letters and all of them are answered by my secretary and me. So I've had to change my phone number a couple of times but basically I don't really have to worry too much about calls anymore. At first things like the phone ringing all the time were common but now I've let my fans know that I'm busy working on the show and answering their letters so it's alright."

Actually phone calls are a big part of Jonathan's life. In March of 1967 he arrived back at his apartment after completing a national tour with 'Hostile Witness' and his agent was calling to tell him that he should audition for "a small part as a vampire" on a show called "Dark Shadows". "It was a great phone call and a great part. I tried out for the part with several other actors and got the part as Barnabas. Barnabas was only supposed to be in the series for two or three weeks. Then after my first appearance on the show, on April 14, 1967, I found that so many people liked the character of Barnabas that he became one of the central characters in 'Dark Shadows'. Right now I'm working on a new two year contract," Jonathan concludes with a smile.

THE TURNABOUTS ARE a groovy bunch of guys and no one knows that better than Merrilee—their fearless leader! The group are: Danny, in back, and from left, Terry, Merrilee, Neil and Carl.

Meet Merrilee and the Turnabouts

It's about time the girls were represented in the male world of pop music and we can't think of a groovier representative than Merrilee Rush, who is the leader and organizer of Merilee and the Turnabouts.

Just 19 years old, Merrilee is one of the most exciting girl performers on the pop scene today and along with the Turnabouts she is the most popular teen attraction in the Pacific Northwest!

HOW SHE STARTED

Merrilee, a name which suits her so well because she is always merry, studied classical music for ten years and at the age of 13 she began performing on USO tours.

When she got a little older she couldn't resist the exciting feeling of performing before a live audience, so she joined a group in the Northwest and began singing Rhythm and Blues, which was very popular at the time.

PAUL DIGS THEM TOO

Not too long after that Merrilee formed her own group, chose the name Turnabouts because she'd heard it on an old Ike Turner record, and began her climb to become the top group in the Northwest.

And how did Paul Revere get into the picture? The Turnabout's road manager, Jimmy, took over as the Raiders' road-man when Hoss left. For many months Jimmy kept telling Uncle Paul about how great Merrilee and the Turnabouts were until Paul finally went up to see for himself. It only took one show to convince Uncle Paul that this was the group that should travel with the Raiders on tour!

MERRILEE'S WARDROBE

It's hard to find Merrilee in the same outfit twice and if you've already seen her on tour you know how sharp she looks at all times. She doesn't own a dress and she has closets full of groovy pantssuits, because she makes and designs most of them herself!

Her hobbies include pets, horseback riding and playing piano; and her favorites are—color: orange, pink, food: Chinese, drink: Shirley Temples, dessert: strawberries, clothes: pantssuits, singers: Mark Lindsay, Otis Redding, group: The Raiders, song: "Louie, Louie," car: Lincoln Continental, actor: Paul Newman, Dustin Hoffman, actress: Sophia Loren, and city: Memphis, Seattle.

THE TURNABOUTS

Probably no one could describe the Turnabouts better than Merrilee herself so here are her mini-descriptions of each:

Danny, drums—full of life, loves to play pool and go swimming.

Terry, bass—loves cars, is dying to buy a helicopter, the most serious one in the group.

Carl, guitar: just 18 and sometimes needs to be babysat, he's the borrower of the group, he has a great voice!

Neil, sax—he's the businessman of the Turnabouts like Paul is to the Raiders, he's wild about motorcycles, he keeps everyone going.

It's a cinch that Merrilee and the Turnabouts are going—up and up and up. Just you see!

My Unforgettable Tour With The Raiders

by Merrilee Rush

Can you imagine yourself at age 19 traveling around the United States with 20 of the grooviest guys around?' Well, it happened to me and I still haven't recovered completely from the shock and the endless hours of fun, fun, fun I had on tour with Paul Revere and the Raiders!

My group, The Turnabouts, did our first tour out of the Northwest on the bill with the Raiders through the Southern states. At the first hotel we stayed at, we found the management had thoughtfully put "Welcome Paul Revere and the Raiders" on their marque, not realizing the problems this sort of advertising might cause. They took the sign down, but naturally a crowd of fans showed up anyway.

FUN IN FLORIDA

The minute we arrived in Florida we all decided to check out the white, white sand on the beaches. Charlie took off by himself to do some beachcombing only to return with a dead fish! and Mark and Paul got a Frisbie game going.

The very next day we drove to Daytona, where we saw a variety of fine cars, which Mark especially enjoyed. Daytona is the home of stock car racing. After the concert there we were off for St. Petersburg where the sun was hot and the humidity was 91 per cent. Here I saw rain for the first time since leaving Seattle (where it rains almost constantly) so, ceremoniously, I ran outside and got soaked for old times sake!

FISHING IN MIAMI

When we got to Miami, Jerry Williams, the tour manager, chartered a beautiful boat and Mark, Paul, Steve Alaimo and I went deep sea fishing. We didn't catch any huge fish, but we had a great time anyway.

Mark had been working on a song on the bus on the way to Miami and while we were out on the boat Mark said to me, "The song I'm working on is going to be our next single. I really think it's going to be good!" So while we sat waiting for the fish to bite, Mark finished up the song (It was "Too Much Talk") and proceded to explain to us what the song meant and why he felt he had to write it.

TALES OF DAYS PAST

After playing many dates in Florida, we traveled on to some other Southern states. The whole tour traveled on two buses. The back-up band and the Turnabouts traveled on one bus and the Raiders and I were on another bus. I traveled with them so I wouldn't miss a single bit of action to write down along the way!

We did a lot of sleeping on the bus, but when everyone was awake Paul and Mark would begin reminiscing about the "good old days" in the Northwest and they'd be cracking everybody up, including themselves, with their funny stories.

RAIDERS ARE CLOWNS

The show we did in Montgomery, Alabama was really a scene! The promoter had booked so many acts on the bill that the show ran two and a half hours overtime. Because the Raiders headline the show they go on last, which meant they had to wait in the dressing room for about four hours before going on.

Desperate for something to occupy the time, the fellows devised games and tricks to amuse themselves during their wait. Joe, Jr. did a juggling act while Mark did tricks with a coat hanger and a coin and Freddy threw coins in the air trying to catch them all before they'd hit the ground.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL

It was really a circus they had going and I thought to myself, "If only the audience could see them now!" But really, that night wasn't so unusual because it's really a constant comedy backstage.

Following that show we traveled to Birmingham to do two shows. The Raiders were at their usual best that night and I laughed so hard tears were rolling down my face. Joe took a drum solo that got out of hand, so Paul stepped in and used a fire extinguisher to cool him down. Charlie was allowed to do a classical guitar number on Paul's favorite stool because it had been Charlie's birthday, but this ended in a comic catastrophe too!

SCENE AT HOTEL

Arriving back at the hotel, our police escort was unable to get in the elevator with us. There had been a big football game in town that day and we just happened to wind up sharing the same elevator with some of the players on the teams.

They didn't cotton to long-haired sissies and just wouldn't believe that these "freaks" were the Raiders. Things got a bit touchy on that ride from the first floor to the nineteenth, but later those same fellows came around asking for autographs!

ONE HAPPY FAMILY

Our last show was in Louisville, Kentucky, where the tour ended and we all parted company. It was kind of sad but yet everyone had grown a bit homesick over the many weeks. We had been just one big happy family on the bus with Tommy Roe and Freddy writing songs, Keith Allison entertaining the troops with his country singing and humor, Joe playing his flute and Charlie just being Charlie, which means a lot of good-natured complaining.

Some miscellaneous things I recall: Joe is a constant musician—he's always playing some kind of musical instrument and usually chose to ride in the bus with the Turnabouts... one time Charlie had a little rip in the cuff of his pants and he got so angry he ripped it all the way up the leg!

If you're wondering how I got along traveling with 20 guys, well, it wasn't too bad for me because I never had scads of girls knocking on my door. And if there was a knock at my door (I always had the room between Paul and Jerry) you would instantly see two heads pop out to see who it was. To say the least, I had a lot of baby-sitters!

Being on tour with these great people was quite an experience for me and I hope that in the future I'll be writing about another Raider tour. But what means more to me than anything is the great reaction YOU all gave me and my group. That's something for which I'll never be able to say enough "thank you's".

DINO Hollywood's next BIG Star?

You've been waiting and waiting for Dino's big new movie... A Boy-A Girl. Well, this summer is the time when its first premier releases will take place.

The story is a simple one: that of a 15-year-old boy and girl in love. Sound familiar? But, it's a very serious story made for an adult audience. The producers filmed it without trying to appeal to a mass audience, but we're sure every fan of Dino's will want to see it, and probably more than once. It's in color and the director, John Derek, has tried some exciting new camera shots that are really outasite.

Dino's hair is blond for the part and he didn't like his hair that color, but he's very happy now that it's back to normal. Once the movie audiences all over the world get a look at Dino, we think they'll pick him as a number one new star. What do you think?

Say Hello To Beautiful Ben

Hi! I'm Ben Murphy and if you've been to the movies lately you might have caught a glimpse of me as one of the fraternity brothers in "The Graduate" or seen me as the teenage boy Henry Fonda sets straight in "Yours, Mine and Ours," also starring Lucille Ball.

I grew up in Jonesboro, Arkansas (don't be surprised if I still have a bit of a drawl!) and before starting my acting career I attended five universities! You might call me a college drop-in!

I really began to get interested in acting while in college and after I graduated from the University of Illinois I studied drama at the Pasadena Playhouse. I did a lot of summer stock across the country, but it wasn't until I signed my contract with Universal Studios that I really felt I was on my way.

When that happened they immediately put me to work doing two "Virginian" shows, an episode of "To Catch A Thief" and a part in a new detective series called "The Outsider." Some other bits of information you might like to know about me:

STATISTICS: I'm 26 years old, born on March 16. I have blond hair, blue eyes, stand 5' 11" tall and weigh 170 pounds. My parents' names are Patrick and Nadine Murphy and I have a younger brother named Timothy.

FAVORITES: Have you ever tried to pick out your very favorite this or that? It's pretty hard, but here are some of my fave things: color, red; food, sandwiches; drink, Coke; dessert, hot fudge sundaes; clothes, everything today; group, Beatles; car, Jaguar; actor, James Dean; actress, Julie Christie; city, Los Angeles.

HOBBIES: My hobbies, or the little projects I sometimes get involved in, change all the time, but I consistently enjoy—reading (my favorite author right now is Truman Capote), writing (I keep a type of travel log of all my journeys), baseball (this was my first ambition) and basketball.

GIRLS: A favorite topic of mine! I love them in all shapes and sizes. First of all, I'm a confirmed bachelor (for right now anyway) so I do really love dating many girls. I usually like to date girls that are younger than me because they seem to be more natural and not over sophisticated. I dig naturalness in everything from make-up to hair to the way a girl acts. I also admire honesty in a girl. Beauty—well, to me that means the kind of person a girl is inside. I'm just a fun-loving guy looking for fun-loving girls.

DATING: My dates usually wind up to reflect my mood at that moment. It may be a fancy dinner followed by dancing, but it may also be a moonlight horseback ride. I love doing almost anything as long as it takes two (or more) and means lots of laughter and good times.

MY LIFE: Today I'm happier than I've ever been because I'm really starting out in my career. It's only a start, but I'm proud of what I've done so far and I can't wait to work even harder in the future. Someday I'd like to make my own films, but right now I'm loving just about everything I'm doing.

Here's Ben Murphy in a screen test for "Patch."

TINY TIM says:

God Bless You Tiger Beat Readers

Dear, Sweet Tiger Beat Readers,

I'm so very, very happy that you want to know all about me. I love you all so much that my heart beats faster every time I think about you. What's happening to me now is because of dear sweet people like you and I'll never forget that.

I have been singing ever since I can remember, years ago appearing in amateur shows in Brooklyn, and just all over the place. I sang in hospitals, and for the poor in the streets. I even sang in back alleys and on subway trains, just to sing whatever the people wanted to hear. All I wanted to do was to spread joy all over.

I always bring my little ukelele along in my shopping bag which my dear sweet father bought for me. After all, you just never know when a song might come along.

I won't tell you my exact age but I'm not a teenager any longer. This doesn't make too much difference to me because I still feel young at heart and I always will. I live with my dear sweet parents in New York City. They are so good to me and my mother, Tilly, still picks out all my clothes. I wouldn't know what to do without her help.

I can't tell you anything about my hates because I don't really have any. I just love everything. But flying does frighten me. I'd always rather take the train.

My loves include Tiger Milk Shakes, Frank Sinatra, girls (just to look at; not to touch), taking showers (I always take 8 showers a day at least), singing, and lilac scented shaving lotion.

Food is very important to me and I am a vegetarian. I eat lots of wonderful wheat germ, sunflower seeds, and honey. Once in awhile I'll indulge in a thrilling piece of cream pie. I love all the flavors.

My hobbies are all circled around my music. I adore playing the ukelele, guitar, and violin. I do this because it makes me better able to spread joy around the world.

Really, there are three main reasons why I sing. The first is to give thanks to God for the gift he gave me. Number two is to cheer people whether they are young or old, with a song of the past or present. And number three, and perhaps above all, is because of all the lovely women who with their beauty cause my heart to overflow with joy.

Why do I sing a lot of things in a high voice? Well, for me, this voice is all happiness and sunshine ... a field of flowers and the beauty in the face of a young girl. It is the light, youthful, gay, romantic spirit of my heart.

Some of my personal secrets include the fact that my real name isn't Tiny Tim. It's Herbert Khaury. Also I do want to get married, but I haven't met the girl of my dreams yet. Once I do, that'll be the most wonderful day of my life. Until that time, I'll live at home with my dear, sweet wonderful parents and try as best I can to give joy and happiness to the wonderful world out there. Just for your information I'm 6' 1" tall and have long brown hair, and deep brown eyes. You can write me c/o Tiger Beat, 1800 N. Highland Ave., Hollywood, Calif. 90028 and dear, sweet, little Ann Moses will personally give all the letters to me the next time I return to Hollywood. In the meantime, please keep listening to my albums on Reprise Records. My new album is called God Bless Tiny Tim. And remember, my personal ambition is to bring joy back to the world. I hope I begin with you.

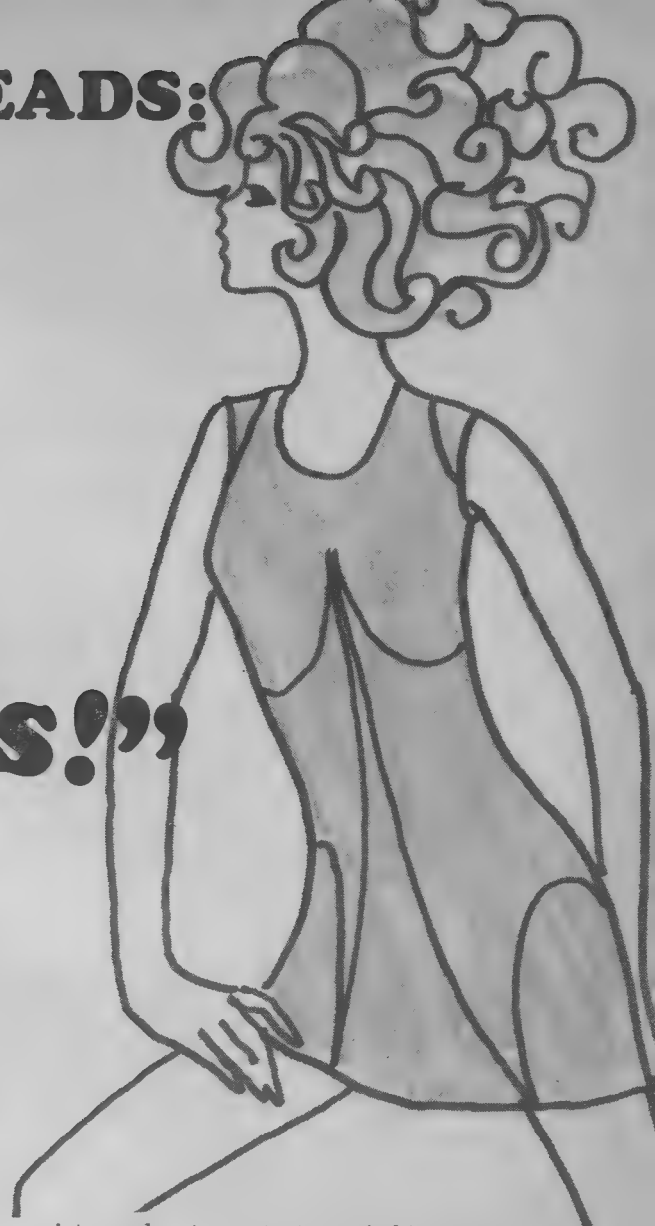
MARK LINDSAY PLEADS:

"Down With Maxi-Skirts!"



Ladies and Gentlemen (particularly the ladies, women, girls, females, better-halfs, birds and all those sort of people):

I protest! Sit down while I stand on my soap box (or stand while I sit on my soap box) and listen closely, if you will, to what I have to clearly express, digress and expound my views about, and all that kind of stuff.

(Humphrfuhtt—excuse me.)

I stand before you today to protest something that could be a threat to our society. Correction—is a threat to our society, more dangerous than a speeding bullet, more perilous than a plague and spreading faster than butter on a hot day. What I've come to talk about—even protest about—is a blight to our world with a name so evil, so bad, so confounded no good that . . . well, it's (are you ready for this?) the MAXI-SKIRT!

Yes folks, that's the name. That's the word, the perilous blight on our society with a meaning so evil, so terrible and downright bad that I can't bear to think of the implications, the meanings, the changes it could bring about in our society today.

I mean, I mean, I mean, the maxi-skirt means NO MORE KNEES.

Now gentlemen, think what that means to us, to all the men who so heartily applauded — even whistled at — all the mini-skirted legs when they first blossomed forth in our nation last year. Think about it! It means no more whistles. No more driving down the street and puckering up for a few notes at every stoplight. It means less eyebrow raising, less suntanned leg per square mile and worst of all, it means NO MORE KNEES.

Now ladies, don't you think this is really going too far? I mean, mini-skirts were beautifully extreme but maxi-skirts which cover not only the knee but the leg too are really just too much!

Have a little heart girls. Give the boys a chance to show their appreciation of your looks by long, loud wolf whistles. Don't cover your knees—show them proudly!

Now, in keeping with my public protest of maxi-skirts, I, Mark Lindsay of Paul Revere and the Raiders, plan to protest maxi-skirts from the stage, any stage. From now on, I'll hold the microphone in one hand and a sign reading "Up With Maxi-Skirts" in the other. The guys in the band will have "Mini-Skirts Forever" painted on their instruments and Uncle Paul is going to write "Don't Date Girls With Maxi-Skirts" on the front of his organ.

We're also thinking about charging girls double who come to our concerts in the new long styles.

Last, I've composed several new songs to sing at my upcoming anti-maxi-skirt rallies. The first one, "Knees," is about a time when no one had yet invented the maxi. It goes:

"Knees,
Knees are all I see. . . ."

Then I've composed "What The World Needs Now Is Knees," "Nasty Maxi," "Try A Little Mini Dress," and "If I Were A Tailor . . . I'd Never Sew A Maxi."

Besides girls, if maxis become really popular and everyone wears them, I'll do something drastic—like cut off my hair. That'll fix you!

AMSTERDAM FIASCO

At the modern Amsterdam airport, it was freak-out time, as the Association hit the duty free shops. Gifts were bought, including everything from perfume to blouses to jewelry to leather goods.

Then, unfortunately for Pat Colecchio's (their manager) now well-flattened wallet, the guys encountered the camera shop. Brian bought nearly $1,000 worth of camera equipment, Jim bought binoculars and Ted bought a movie camera. I couldn't get around to the other side to see what the others were buying; however, I kept hearing things like "could I borrow" being thrown in Pat's direction. I really think we should have brought an accountant along.

FASTEST ACT ALIVE

With all the shopping behind, we settled into Brussels for two days of filming. On the eve of our arrival, Jim, Larry, Helen, Richard (our photog) and myself went to a little Italian restaurant (in Brussels??) for a bite to eat. Afterwards, while waddling back to the hotel, we came upon the longest arcade of small stores that I have ever seen in my life and it was soooo convenient . . . like just across from our hotel.

Word spread and I have never seen a television show filmed and wrapped up so quickly . . . pictures taken on the way back to the hotel . . . and then it was "time for shoppin' ". It was on a completely individual basis, because who was going to admit that they were going shopping again!

ONE FINAL SPREE

The secrecy was soon shattered, however . . . did you ever take time off from school for a dentist appointment that turned into a shopping trip and then run into everybody you know? Well, then you know the feeling, because I'm sure we felt the same way. It was more or less a passing parade of familiar faces.

It's like I said before . . . it might have been easier to buy Europe. The only thing that bothers me is that I'm sure we forgot to buy something for Uncle George in Alaska.

TIGER TALK

A GROOVIER WORLD

It's going to be up to our generation to obtain peace between the races and love for all of our brothers and sisters no matter what color their skin is! Please pray for peace, be kind to everyone and help make this a groovier world!

I know we can achieve this if we all work and groove together NOW! So be happy and LOVE!

Linda Lull
Independence, Mo.

SHOULD FIX THEM

I think Mark Lindsay should get his contacts fixed! When I was looking at a closeup photo of him, I could tell they were really loose! I've got them too, so I know what I'm talking about.

All he has to do is get them adjusted and they'll be much more comfortable, not to mention more groovy looking!

Kathy
S. Holland, Ill.

CUTE SAJID

I like Sajid Khan. I think he is cute—very cute. But I must admit I like Davy Jones a little better.

Karen
Warwick, R.I.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN?

In the past month I've read in four different places that California is going to have an earthquake. What happens if all the stars go down with it? Let's hope and pray for the best!

Chris Young
Ravena, N.Y.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

If you want to keep America beautiful, support mini skirts! They're the wildest things since TV was invented! Anyway, how would it look if girls were walking down the streets wearing dresses down to their ankles?

Herman's Shop

Simon and Garfunkel sang that "it's all happening at the zoo" and now that line in a song has really come to life! Peter Noone joined Davy Jones as a pop star-businessman when he opened his men's boutique in New York City called "The Zoo."

Peter flew in from London for a special fashion show on the merry-go-round in Central Park. Wearing a custom tailored dark purple suit with light purple piping, Peter greeted guests, went for a ride on the merry-go-round and then led everyone to the buses he had chartered for a ride to "The Zoo."

There his guests not only enjoyed a wild opening party, but also got a preview of the unusual clothes his shop features—tailored suits, jackets, shirts and ties—and most of them in vinyl!

It was a way-out way to introduce a way-out boutique. Be sure to see it if you can.

Ann Moses'

MEOW!

The latest about the greatest!!

A funny note to recall in this August, 1968—in mid-January of 1967 MICK JAGGER said of the MONKEES—"They've had fantastic promotion in the States, but I think people will get tired of them. I'd give THE MONKEES until July in America, perhaps a little longer." Well, MICK, it's been quite a bit longer!

British fans had a real treat when they attended the New Musical Express (Britain's leading pop newspaper) Poll Winners' Concert. After grooving to 20 top acts including LULU, THE ASSOCIATION, THE HERD, the master of ceremonies brought on the surprise act of the night—THE ROLLING STONES! This was their first live appearance in over a year and everyone agreed it was just as groovy as before.

Hollywood is a fun town and I'm continually reminded of it every where I go. I was dying for a Belgian waffle and decided to have lunch at "Old World" restaurant (it's their specialty) on the Strip and found TERRY KIRKMAN of the ASSOCIATION and JANIS JOPLIN of BIG BROTHER AND THE HOLDING COMPANY had the same idea.

The next day I was out to buy my brother's birthday present, some motorcycle gloves, and who do I run into at the cycle shop but DINO MARTIN. He was buying a crash helmet so he could do some cycle racing.

He'd just returned the day before from a quick two-day trip to Brussels, Belgium where he went to see a Ferrari he wanted to buy. He dug his Lamborghini, but when someone broke the windshield he decided he liked this particular Ferrari better. So, he's selling his Lamborghini (for $18,000, if you're interested). He bought it for $21,000. He's also buying STEVE McQUEEN'S motorcycle.

It's true that the BUFFALO SPRINGFIELD have split up. It was a sad night when they played their final concert in Long Beach, Calif. Right now there's a possibility they may get together for one live album, which they all wanted to do, but nothing on a permanent basis.

Look for STEVE STILLS to form a new group, while JIMMY and RICHIE will also get a new group together. NEIL plans to produce and sing his own compositions. And, if you're ready for this, DEWEY may be forming a duet with his wife!

The old RAIDERS—meaning PHIL, DRAKE, SMITTY, HARPO, MARK and UNCLE PAUL—were together for the first time since their break-up for a very special occasion in May—the wedding of their manager, ROGER HART. The "new" RAIDERS were there too and it was a very touching scene. Everyone got along beautifully, naturally, and really appreciated the chance to see each other.

CELEBRITY OF THE MONTH: is my very favorite person, NILSSON. Lately the BEATLES have been grooving on his songs too and at their New York press conference when asked their fave American artist, JOHN and PAUL answered "NILSSON." Then, when they were asked their favorite American group, they answered "NILSSON"!

I had a lovely chat with NANCY SINATRA in her new Boots Enterprises office above the Sunset Strip recently and from what she says, ELVIS' new film "Speedway" in which they co-star should really be a fun film. NANCY and EL fight all the way through the flick, but they get together in the end.

NANCY and ELVIS have been very close friends for almost 10 years now and NANCY said it was difficult doing the love scenes. Why? "We could barely stop laughing," she giggled, "it was like doing a love scene with your brother. It was so funny we used to get hysterical. One day the director got furious and threw everybody out and made us go home. We were very unprofessional, but we couldn't help it!"

SOME SHORT ONES: "Fantastic Plastic Machine" is the name of TOMMY JAMES' first feature film, which he'll be doing without the SHONDELLS... GRACIE SLICK has posed for a layout in Playboy magazine... JIM MORRISON is currently working on a documentary film about the topless dancers of San Francisco and Los Angeles. DICK DODD has left the STANDELLS to try it with a solo career.

One of the greatest in-person acts I have ever seen are the CHECKMATES, LTD. They have recently signed with that very with-it label, A & M, so their album sounds should be outasite too. I've never seen an audience become part of the act the way the CHECKMATES make you feel. Talk about love vibrations, they must have invented them. Don't miss them! They're currently touring with HERBIE ALPERT and the TJB.

MIKE'S solo album, "The Wichita Train Whistle Sings" is now on Dot Records, so be sure to pick up on the new, new sounds in this album. To introduce it to the press and the disc jockeys, MIKE and PHYLLIS hosted a beautiful dinner party at their home. They really know how to entertain and made it a most wonderful evening!

There was much anticipation for the MAHARISHI-BEACH BOY tour, but it all ended in disappointment. The MAHARISHI barely made it to the first concert because he missed the plane in India because he was meditating. At their New York concert, the third of the tour, 5,000 people walked out in the middle of the MAHARISHI'S talk.

After that the concert tour was canceled. Official reasons for the cancellations were given as the MAHARISHI'S health, since before he came to the U.S. he was treated for a mild case of pneumonia. However, rumors persist that backers feared low ticket sales and all parties were eager to pull out.

If you ever get the chance to meet darling DACK RAMBO don't pass it up! He's the most easy-going, fun-to-be-with guy I've met in a long time. From the minute you enter his home he makes you feel so comfortable. He may be a big Hollywood star now, but he sure hasn't forgotten the great hospitality he learned growing up on a farm in Northern California.
As the CHECKMATES say so well, SOCK IT TO I!
